

I. ACADEMIC ADVISING

University staff in the Academic Advising Center (Morgan 122) are especially helpful to students who are undecided about programs, or who lack a definite plan upon preparing to return to college. Advisors in the Center assist students and prospective students in making choices about individual courses, planning schedules and choosing majors. They help students gain a better overall understanding of the many academic options offered at Washburn. Academic advising for students with a declared major is conducted by departments.
