

DIAGNOSTIC MEDICAL SONOGRAPHY, AAS

Overview

The Associate of Applied Science (AAS) degree in Diagnostic Medical Sonography is designed for enrolled Washburn University sonography students or graduates who have completed one of the Washburn University diagnostic medical sonography certificate programs. Earning the AAS degree can offer graduates potential career advancement, increased salary potential, and job flexibility.

Admission

The Diagnostic Medical Sonography (DMS) Associate of Applied Science degree is available only to students who have completed a DMS certificate at Washburn University. Please refer to the admission criteria located in the Diagnostic Medical Sonography, Certificate (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-applied-studies/allied-health-department/dms-certificate/>) section of the catalog.

Degree Requirements

In addition to the requirements stated below, students must complete all requirements for an Associate of Applied Science (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/washburn-institute-technology/programs-technical-certificates-graduation-requirements/aas-degrees/>) degree. Completion of the courses below will fulfill the general education requirements for the degree. Please see your advisor for more information.

Code	Title	Hours
Required Certificates
Completed Washburn Diagnostic Medical Sonography Certificate ¹
Required General Education Courses
EN 101	Introductory College Writing	3
MA 112	Contemporary College Mathematics	3
or higher
At least 9 hours of additional general education courses from three of the following areas, and from at least three different disciplines:		9
Communication
Natural Sciences
Social Sciences
Arts and Humanities
Inclusion and Belonging
Scientific Reasoning and Literacy

¹ The completed certificate includes one pre-requisite course in each of the following categories: Communication, Human Anatomy, Human Physiology, Mathematics, Physics, and Medical Terminology.