Brenneman School of Business Values Statement

Stakeholders of the Brenneman School of Business including, but not limited to, faculty, students, and administrators, should expect their interactions with other stakeholders and stakeholder groups to be guided by principles, including, but not limited to, honesty, trust, fairness, respect, integrity, and responsibility.

Honesty - Honesty is the cornerstone of the other fundamental program values. There can be no trust, fairness, respect, integrity, or responsibility without honesty. Honesty creates the possibility for quality teaching, learning, academic research and communication between individuals.

Trust - Trust results from a culture of honesty. Trust provides the foundation for an environment that nourishes creativity and risk-taking in teaching, learning, and scholarship, and is essential to Washburn University's pursuit of quality human development and "learning for a lifetime."

Fairness - A sense of fairness emerges when standards, policies, and procedures are equitable, clear, and in the best interest of all stakeholders. Without fair processes, the learning environment cannot sustain trust and honesty. Fairness ensures that all stakeholders have the opportunity to succeed, and provides a foundation for mutual respect among stakeholders.

Respect - A university environment focused on the creation and transmission of knowledge requires interaction and participation by all stakeholders. Quality interaction is facilitated when stakeholders display respect for one another. When stakeholders are treated fairly and honestly, they are better able to trust one another, which leads to a culture of mutual respect.

Integrity - Stakeholders of the Brenneman School of Business conduct themselves with integrity when teaching, learning, research, communication, and other interactions are conducted in accordance with the principles of honesty, trust, fairness and respect.

Faculty act responsibly when they:

- Maintain currency in their field.
- Freely share their knowledge with students.
- Develop coursework that is focused, relevant, and coherent and adds value to students' career skills and ambitions.
- Critically assess students' work in a constructive and rigorous manner.
- Challenge students to grow intellectually and professionally.
- Create an environment that is conducive to learning.
- Assist students in understanding the requirements and expectations of their degree programs.

Students act responsibly when they:

- Properly prioritize their commitments to the program.
- Manage their work and family responsibilities so they may attend class and be fully engaged in other program activities and requirements.
- Understand the requirements and expectations of their degree programs and plan their class schedules consistent with these expectations.
- Accept criticism in a professional manner and with the understanding that such feedback is designed to improve their business skills and critical thinking.
- Arrive prepared at each class session.
- Contribute substantively to the classroom dialogue.
- Approach the course material thoughtfully.

At the time of declaration of a major in the Brenneman School of Business and at the time of application for admission to the Brenneman School of Business, students are asked to affirm that they have read and understand the Brenneman School of Business Values Statement and agree to practice and abide by these values while they are stakeholders of the School.

Additionally, all Washburn University students are expected to conduct themselves appropriately and ethically in their academic work. Inappropriate or unethical behavior includes (but is not limited to) giving or receiving unauthorized aid on examinations or in the preparation of papers or other assignments and knowingly misrepresenting the source of academic work. Washburn University's Academic Impropriety Policy (<https://www.washburn.edu/academic-impropriety/>) describes academically unethical behavior in greater detail and explains the actions that may be taken when such behavior occurs.

² A grade point average of at least 2.0 is a prerequisite for enrollment in the seven upper-division business courses required of all BBA students. A student must be admitted to the Brenneman School of Business to enroll in 400-level accounting (AC) and business (BU) courses.

³ These courses cannot be used to meet both the core requirement and the requirements of a major area of concentration.

⁴ For more information regarding the Major Areas of Concentration, please see the section below in the catalog or go to the Major Areas of Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/>) webpage.

⁵ Students transferring to Washburn University who have completed 30 or more credit hours at an accredited post-secondary institution with a GPA of 2.0 or higher are exempt from the requirement to take WU 101 The Washburn Experience or HN 101 Honors First Year Experience.

Major Areas of Concentration

BBA candidates must complete an additional 24 hours of upper-division coursework offered by the Brenneman School of Business. This may be done in either of the following ways:

- A student may select courses from a variety of subject areas within the Brenneman School of Business and receive a BBA with a major area of concentration in general business.
- Alternatively, a student may select courses in a way that allows them to complete one or two of the following concentrations.

Each major consists of 24 graded upper-division hours in the Brenneman School of Business divided between required and elective courses.

- Accounting, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/accounting-concentration/>)
- Business Data Analytics, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/business-data-analytics-concentration/>)
- Economics, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/economics-concentration/>)
- Entrepreneurship and Innovation, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/entrepreneurship-innovation-concentration/>)
- Finance, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/finance-concentration/>)
- General Business, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/general-business-concentration/>)
- International Business, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/international-business-concentration/>)
- Management, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/management-concentration/>)
- Marketing, Concentration (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/school-business/major-areas-concentration/marketing-concentration/>)

When two major areas of concentration are selected, the student should seek advice from faculty member in both major areas and prepare a graduation plan two semesters before the intended graduation date to check for feasibility. Without careful planning it may not be possible to complete the specific requirements of two concentrations in the same semester due to time conflicts between classes or classes not offered every semester. Therefore, students, especially part-time and returning students, should seek early advice about course scheduling and sequencing. The same warning applies to students seeking to earn the minor in international business or the certificate in entrepreneurship or who are also concurrently pursuing a degree in another unit of the university.

Internship credit hours are graded on a pass/fail basis only and do not count towards business major requirements. For further information, interested students should consult with the Director of Student Affairs in the Brenneman School of Business. Descriptions of the programs are provided in the course listings of this catalog under AC 499 Internship In Accounting BU 499 Internship in Business, and EC 499 Internship in Economics. Students can take AC 499 and EC 499 once and BU 499 twice during their course of studies, but the total number of credit hours from all Brenneman School of Business internship may not exceed nine (9) semester hours.

Academic Advising and Admission Requirements

It is important that any student pursuing the Bachelor of Business Administration degree work closely with their academic advisor, who will assist students in selecting a major and in planning their academic schedules. Freshman and transfer students should initially consult with the Director of Student Affairs in the Brenneman School of Business office, especially with regard to courses they intend to transfer in (see the Transfer Credit section below for details). Once established in the program, these students are usually assigned an advisor from among the Brenneman School of Business faculty in the field of their interest.

As stated in the Brenneman School of Business Values Statement (above), students are expected to act responsibly in their academic programs and to "understand the requirements and expectations of their degree programs and plan their class schedules consistent with these expectations." The Brenneman School of Business offers in-person academic advising during the enrollment process and provides advising materials explaining program requirements through this catalog, the School's website, and customized information sheets. The student, however, has the ultimate responsibility for understanding the requirements of their degree programs as outlined in this catalog and in the advising materials, including potential scheduling conflicts between majors, for monitoring their own progress in the program, and for ensuring that the program requirements, including course prerequisites, are met in proper order and on a timely basis.

Students should become familiar with Navigate and Degree Works academic planning tools. They should review their academic transcript and degree audit periodically and especially prior to each meeting with their advisor. The purpose of the degree audit is to identify for students the remaining requirements necessary to complete their degree program. While the degree audits are unofficial, they intend to be an accurate reflection of the student's academic progress. If the student believes his or her audit or transcript is incorrect, the question should be brought promptly to the attention of an advisor or the Dean's office.

In planning their class schedules, students are expected to observe academic planning principles, including course prerequisites, and to consult with a Brenneman School of Business advisor to clarify any doubts. Course prerequisites are considered met when the prerequisite course is completed with a grade of "C" or better. Note: The prerequisites of a course include the prerequisites of its prerequisite courses.

The basic advising principle in course sequencing is that 100-level courses should generally be completed before 200-level courses, which should be completed before 300-level courses, which should be completed before 400-level courses. However, several general education courses can be saved until later semesters as this allows more flexibility in course scheduling. While the upper-division business requirement beyond the business core has room for two major areas of concentration in most cases (excluding accounting), students may not be able to complete the requirements of both majors in the same semester due to scheduling conflicts. Additionally, some courses in some majors are offered only once per year. Therefore it is recommended that students plan their course work at least two semesters ahead.

Administratively, there are four steps in a student's progress to the Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) degree, apart from the course work and the separate applications for scholarships and financial aid, which need to be initiated by the student. These steps are:

1. Application to Washburn University as a degree-seeking student,
2. Declaration of major area of concentration,
3. Admission to the Brenneman School of Business, and
4. Application for the degree.

They are explained below in more detail.

Declaration of Major Area of Concentration

Early in their program of study, all students interested in earning the Bachelor of Business Administration degree should declare their intended degree and major area(s) of concentration by filling out the "Declaration of Major Program Form" electronically (https://www.washburn.edu/academics/college-schools/business/_REDESIGN%202018/FILES/Paperwork/Declaration-of-Major-Form.pdf#Declaration%20of%20Major%20Form) or in print and delivering it to bba@washburn.edu or to the Brenneman School of Business office. After the declaration of major program has been approved and the faculty advisor has been assigned, students should meet with the faculty advisor for academic program planning and enrollment. This procedure should also be followed whenever a student changes their major or adds a major. The areas of concentration available within the BBA degree are accounting, business data analytics, entrepreneurship and innovation, economics, finance, international business, management, marketing, and general business. Students who are interested in the BBA degree but have not yet decided on a concentration can initially declare a concentration in general business and then later change their declaration to align with their final decision.

Declaring a major is not the same as being admitted to the Brenneman School of Business. A declaration of major is simply a statement of student intentions which also establishes an advising relationship. To be admitted to the Brenneman School of Business, students must satisfy the conditions for admission detailed under Application for Admission to the Brenneman School of Business below.

Application for Admission to the Brenneman School of Business

Immediately upon completion of 54 semester hours of college credit, MA 116 College Algebra, and the seven required lower-division Brenneman School of Business courses, students should apply for admission to the Brenneman School of Business by filling out the "Application for Admission Form" electronically (https://www.washburn.edu/academics/college-schools/business/_REDESIGN%202018/FILES/Paperwork/Declaration-of-Major-Form.pdf#Declaration%20of%20Major%20Form) or in print and delivering it to bba@washburn.edu or to the Brenneman School of Business office. The eight courses required for admission are:

Code	Title	Hours
MA 116	College Algebra	3
AC 224	Financial Accounting	3
AC 225	Managerial Accounting	3
BU 250	Management Information Systems	3
BU 258	Foundations of Data Analysis	3
EC 200	Principles of Microeconomics	3
EC 201	Principles of Macroeconomics	3
EC 211	Statistics for Business and Economics	3

MA 346 Regression Analysis may be substituted for EC 211 Statistics for Business and Economics. A minimum of 30 semester hours must be earned after being admitted to the Brenneman School of Business. Admission to the Brenneman School of Business is a requirement for enrolling in any 400-level accounting (AC) or business (BU) courses. As part of the application for admission to the Brenneman School of Business and prior to each semester's advising, students are encouraged to process a degree audit and to confirm that all transfer credit is correctly posted.

Application for Degree

Early in their last semester, students planning to graduate must file an Application for Degree form through the MyWashburn portal in order to initiate a graduation check. The application should be filed in September for the Fall semester and in February for the Spring semester and the Summer term. A student is not a Candidate for Degree until the University Registrar's Office has the form on file and the candidacy has been approved.

Students applying for graduation should process a degree audit upon enrollment for the final semester and again at the beginning of final semester to ensure that all degree requirements will be met. At the time of the application for the degree, the student should undeclare any major no longer being pursued. All questions, uncertainties, and potential anomalies should be brought to the attention of an advisor in the Brenneman School of Business.

Prerequisite Policy for Students in Brenneman School of Business Courses

It is the responsibility of all students enrolled in Brenneman School of Business courses to observe the published prerequisites for each course. This applies to all degree-seeking, visiting, and non-degreeseeking students regardless of their major or degree program. Visiting students including exchange students, or their sponsoring organizations, will need to present official documentation proving that prerequisites have been met. For a prerequisite requirement to be met, the prerequisite course must be successfully completed with a grade of "C" or better. The prerequisites of a course include the prerequisites of its prerequisite courses. If after enrolling in a course, a student no longer meets the course prerequisite requirements, the student is required to withdraw from the course without delay or be subject to administrative withdrawal from the course at any time. Students not majoring in one of the majors in business may request permission in the Dean's Office to enroll in 400-level accounting (AC) and (BU) courses if they have achieved standing in their own programs comparable to admission to the Brenneman School of Business. Any questions should be directed to the Director of Student Affairs in the Brenneman School of Business office.

Pass/Fail Policy

Candidates for the BBA degree must earn a grade of "C" or better in all courses used to meet Brenneman School of Business requirements and may not take those courses pass/fail. This includes courses offered by the Brenneman School of Business, as well as courses offered outside of the Brenneman School of Business but required for the BBA degree including CN 150 Public Speaking, EN 208 Professional Writing, MA 116 College Algebra, MA 140 Statistics, PY 100 Basic Concepts in Psychology, and SO 100 Introduction to Sociology. Students who earn pass/fail credit in a required course prior to admission to the Brenneman School of Business must consult with the Dean's office.

Repetition of Courses

Undergraduate courses may be repeated. Courses for which grades of D or F are recorded can be retaken without departmental approval. Courses for which a grade of C, or pass, or higher are recorded will require departmental approval from the department or school offering the course before the student can retake it.

The transcript will contain a complete record of all courses taken and grades earned. Only the last repeated and not the prior grade(s) will be included in determining the cumulative grade point average. However, after a student has repeated the same course three times, or has repeated three different courses, that student must have the permission of the associate dean of the Brenneman School of Business before repeating any course. In cases where an excessive repeat (ER) hold has been put in place, the student should expect to be advised by the associate dean until all relevant courses have been successfully completed. Enrollment before the completion of the previous semester is at the discretion of the associate dean.

Transfer Credit

General information about the university credit transfer policies is available in the Admissions (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/student-services-academic-support/admissions/>) section of the catalog. The Brenneman School of Business reserves the right to evaluate any business transfer credit before accepting or rejecting them as meeting Brenneman School of Business requirements. In accord with business school accreditation standards, academic work accepted from other institutions should be comparable to that in the degree programs of the Brenneman School of Business.

To facilitate advising and schedule planning, any credit transfer petitions should be submitted as soon as possible and preferably during the first semester of enrollment. Students should provide catalog course descriptions and course syllabi to the Brenneman School of Business. Official transcripts of all coursework taken at other schools should be sent directly to Washburn University Registrar. Non-business transfer courses that are not already listed on the Washburn University Transfer Guides but might meet University degree requirements, including general education requirements, will need to be reviewed by the department to which the course discipline belongs or by the University General Education Committee. For more information on the credit transfer process, please refer to the Transfer Student (<https://catalog.washburn.edu/undergraduate/student-services-academic-support/admissions/>) section of this catalog.

Washburn business majors who wish to take classes at another institution to meet their degree requirements at Washburn must receive prior approval from the Brenneman School of Business Dean's office. The application form with guidelines is available here (https://www.washburn.edu/academics/college-schools/business/_REDESIGN%202018/FILES/Paperwork/transient-form-2018.pdf).

International Transfer Credit

All university-level foreign transcripts must be evaluated by a Washburn University-recognized evaluation service (e.g. Education Credential Evaluators (ECE, www.ece.org (<https://www.ece.org/>)) or World Education Services (WES, www.wes.org (<https://www.wes.org/>)). Application forms can be obtained from their respective websites. A "course-by-course" report is required. The cost of this evaluation is the responsibility of the student. Completed evaluations should be sent directly from the evaluation agency to the Washburn University Registrar, after which they will be posted on the student's Washburn University transcript and degree audit.

For international students who have completed a baccalaureate or associate degree from an accredited international institution outside of the U.S., satisfactorily completed courses may be accepted towards credit in the appropriate general education areas. International transfer courses that are not part of a completed degree at an accredited international institution, will need to be reviewed individually by the University General Education Committee or by the chair of the department to which the course discipline belongs. The students should provide catalog course descriptions, syllabi and other information as required by the General Education Transfer Course Petition (<https://www.washburn.edu/faculty-staff/faculty-resources/policies-forms/forms/gen-ed-transfer-petition.pdf>) form. Petitions should be prepared by the students and submitted through the students' academic advisors. Courses in accounting, business, business data analytics, and economics not already on the transfer guides will be reviewed by the Brenneman School of Business. Courses that do not fall into any of the categories listed above will transfer in as general elective courses.

To facilitate advising and schedule planning, all the reviews should be completed in the first semester of enrollment at Washburn, especially for courses that are part of the Brenneman School of Business degree requirements.

Second Bachelor's Degrees and Second Concentrations

Students who have already completed a BBA degree from Washburn University may later return to earn an additional concentration within the BBA. However, they must satisfy all the specific BBA degree requirements under a catalog that is still in effect at the time the additional major is awarded, which may not be their original catalog.

When the previous business degree is from an AACSB-accredited business school, the business core requirements normally will be considered to have been met, assuming that appropriate grades have been earned and prerequisites have been met for courses to be taken at Washburn. All students will still be required to complete the capstone BU 449 Strategic Management course, the specific degree requirements, and School's residency requirement. To meet Brenneman School of Business residency, at least 50 percent of the accounting, business, business data analytics, or economics hours presented for the BBA degree must be completed at Washburn University. Transfer credit will be evaluated on a course-by-course basis.

Students with a bachelor's degree in an area other than business from either Washburn University or an external institution can also earn the Washburn BBA as an additional degree. Such students must complete a minimum of 150 hours of university-level credit in total and satisfy all the specific business degree requirements.

All students looking to complete a second degree or concentration in business should consult Brenneman School of Business academic advisors about course scheduling and sequencing and develop a viable and appropriate graduation plan

Outcome Assessment and Assurance of Learning

The Brenneman School of Business, as part of its continuous improvement efforts and consistent with the requirements of Washburn University, the Higher Learning Commission, and the Association for the Advancement of Collegiate Schools of Business - AACSB International, at intervals administers surveys and tests to its students, graduates, staff, and external constituents. We encourage all of those contacted to support our continuous improvement efforts by participating in these surveys and tests. For currently enrolled students, the tests and surveys may be required as part of coursework, or as program and degree graduation requirements separate from coursework, and are independent of the catalog under which the student intends to graduate. Tests may be administered during regularly scheduled classes, or at other times separate from class meeting times, including on Saturdays; an assessment fee may be charged.
